NEW YORK HERALD, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1862.

government must insure the return to the Treasuugh the channels of tax commissioners, of the bulk of the Treasury notes now to be issued hin a few weeks. In other words, taxes must be levied at once, and made payable in April at latest, or there will be another dead lock at the Treasury within ninety days. The new regulation. Treasury notes are received on deposit at the Sub-Treasuries, will prove useful to some extent. But the relief afforded by this expedient will not be adequate to supply the wants of government, if the collection of taxes be unduly deyed. Mr. Cisco cannot hope to get over ten ons at most on temporary loan, and in the event of a disturbance in the money market the new plan might embarrass instead of assisting the government. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the committee of Ways and Means will remember that speed is of more consequence, in the present emerency, than exactness of detail, and that a scheme or a system of direct taxation will be laid before the House this week. The whole subject has been so thoroughly ventilated in the newspapers that no member can pretend to be unfamiliar with its arings. Everybody knows what articles wil; bear taxation, and every competent statistician can form an opinion as to the amount of revenue they will yield. Every one is agreed that taxation-copious, searching and thorough taxation-is time wasted, then, in such idle discourses as were delivered on the Treasury Note bill by the oppo-nents of that measure. Members of Congress may surely be assumed to know something; it should not be necessary to review the whole science of political economy to enable the House to decide whether a stamp tax should be 1/4 or 3/4 per cent, or whether railway passengers should or should not pay a small tax on their tickets. The five minutes rule should be rigorously applied, and when the debate opens an hour should be fixed for taking the vote. Congress may rely upon it that the paper money scheme will not relieve the Treasury if the Tax bill be delayed. Members may likewise feel perfectly assured that no measure is so certain to protect the United States against foreign intervention as the passage of a tax bill securing an ample revenue to the government, and demonstrating to the foreign world that our people are thoroughly in earnest, and capable of bearing on their own shoulders the cost of the greatest war of modern times.

The traffic of January on the Galena and Chicago road shows an increase of about $9,000. The figures are as follows-

Increase$8,927 We read in the Albany Evening Journal of Feb-

From the quarterly returns made to the Superinten d at of the Eack I epartment of this State, we have complied the subjoined aummary, enowing the condition of the backs in this State en the morning of the 21st of September and the 28th of December, 1861. All the backs in existence, now numbering three hundred and two, reported in accordance with law, including the Schenectady and Steuben county banks, whose charters (under the safety fund) expired the 1st of January, 1862, and which have reorganized as banking associations, retaining their old names, and also including the Back of Reme, Bank of Selina and Enex County Bank and also "safety funds" whose charters also expired January 1, 1863, but have not reorganized. The Bank of Otego (acsociation) made its first report. The Union Bank of Medina, though having filed its papers as an association, had not so far organized as to be able to report its condition on the 28th of December. The Artisans' Bank, New York, and the Marine Bank of Puffalo, have given notice of winding up.—
